

THE STORY

Four children named Sylvia, Shawn, Sarah and Sam had vegetable gardens. They lived on different streets in the same town. The streets were Maple Street, Oak Street, Birch Street and Elm Street. They grew one kind of vegetable in their gardens. They grew cucumbers, tomatoes, beets and cauliflower. The children all had different pets. Their pets were a dog, a cat, a llama and a buffalo. Their pets were named Fluffy, Spike, Duke and Tabby. Based on the clues, match the children with the streets they lived on, the vegetables they grew, their pets and the names of their pets.

THE CLUES

1. Fluffy the dog lived on Oak Street, and his owner grew tomatoes.
2. Duke the llama lived on Birch Street, and his owner grew beets.
3. Shawn and Sarah did not have either a cat or a buffalo as pets.
4. Sylvia did not live on Maple Street, grow cucumbers, or have Tabby the buffalo as a pet.
5. Shawn did not live on Oak Street, and his pet was not a dog.
6. Sarah did not grow beets.

THE STORY

Four mice named Ferdy, Fannie, Frank and Farrah decided to start lifting weights to build their muscles. At the end of a year they had all managed to lift impressive amounts. They lifted 1 pound, 2 pounds, 3 pounds and 4 pounds. The mice had favorite cheeses that were Swiss, cheddar, American and Gouda. The mice loved to travel and they all wanted to visit different countries. These foreign countries were Mexico, Spain, England and Italy. When the mice were lifting weights they all wore different colored sweatbands that were purple, yellow, pink and green. Based on the clues, match the mice with their weight totals, their favorite cheeses, the countries they wanted to visit and their sweatband colors.

THE CLUES

1. The gouda-loving mouse in the green sweatband wanted to visit Italy.
2. Frank and Farrah did not lift the heaviest two weights.
3. Ferdy lifted more than Fannie, and Frank lifted one pound less than the mouse in the green sweatband.
4. The mouse that lifted the heaviest weight liked cheddar cheese, wanted to visit Mexico, and wore a pink sweatband.
5. Fannie thought the mouse in the purple sweatband, that liked American cheese, was weak even for a mouse.
6. Frank did not want to visit Spain.
